Purpose of the integral solid waste management law

First purpose: the prevention or minimization of the generation of solid waste at source, compared to any other alternative.

Secondly, with respect to the waste generated, the material and energy recovery of the waste is preferred, which includes reuse, recycling, composting, coprocessing, among other alternatives that guarantee the protection of the environment.

The final disposal of solid waste in the respective infrastructure constitutes the last management alternative and must be carried out under environmentally appropriate conditions
